any length of time. What strong governments and their Depot in Sydney contains the largest assortment like those in the British Crown Colonies find so difficult to regulate, our weak and unprepared government would be utterly incapable of repressing. In the last report of the " Protector of Chinese" at Singapore, we read that though there were no serious disturbances among the Chinese there last year: "the continual vigilance of the Registrars of the Dangerous Societies and the police has, however, been needed to prevent from growing into open riots the innumerable petty disputes arising from the 100,00 disintregation of the Hoeys and the increasing

ments on the report just quoted from, makes some remarks which may, we think, be read with profit here. Hitherto it can hardly be said that except in respect to their use of opium we have made any attempt to "govern" the Chinese who are here. The great majority of them have, up to the present time, been very peaceable and well-behaved, and in the records of crime they do not make any prominent figure (in proportion to their numbers) when compared with Hawaiians or other foreigners. They have been extremely prosperous, and prosperous people are not usually turbulent. When they find things here less rosy, when their numbers render sharp competition for available good things necessary, they may not be any better behaved here than else where. Meanwhile we have no officials who know-anything about them, their language, or their ways, and we are not even talking of sending for any, or of training suitable men on the spot. The proposal made in the subjoined quotation from the journal just referred to, is one very suitable to our own case. It has for some time past seemed to us that an arrangement of the character indicated was needed here. Although the Chinese as a mass are peaceable, there are few who have had them as servants who have not personal experience to relate of insubordination, insolence and desertion of service. Most people find it better to "grin and bear" such treatment, than to undertake the troublesome task of seeking justice; but if there were any organization by which the offenders could be promptly dealt with, there would be

"With regard to the question of clan organi ing, if the matter is carefully studied, that the authorities must come to the conclusion that it is necessary, as well as the best plan, to have a system of Captain Chinese. If this plan is adopted it would not only assist in keeping order, but would also act beneficially in the cases of immigrants who would be divided amongst the depots of their various clans.

adding a syllable to it? Quick. What is a very old lady, plunging about in the middle of the harbor, like?—Like to be drowned. Joe Assp shot himself, because a girl declined him with thanks. This is the first ass, we have manifests, as he advances in life, an increased disposition to kiss all the young and pretty girls he meets. As men grow older, they grow wiser. It was at a temperance meeting. The speaker increased in eloquence and noise, and as he cried -" Yes my friends, we'll lift our temperance vessel out of the mire and mud, on to hard dry ground, and then sail beautifully along. A pretty girl " out West " told her beau that she was a mind-reader. 'You don't say so?' he

"Yes," said she: "You have it in mind to ask me to be your wite, but you're just a little scared at the idea." The wedding-cards are out. A small boy could not shut the jack-knife which was given to him to play with, and put it in his pocket. It cut him. His mother, when he took off his clothes saw the cut and asked him

" No," said he, "I drank some water, and it did not leak, so I was all right." Let the patriotic American take courage. Congress is not the most undignified legislative body in the world. Language not perfectly elegant occasionally finds expression even in the British house of Commons. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, looking at Lord Randolph Churchill one little less exquisite but quite natural, Lord Randolph replied, "You damned fool." Princess Louise is described by Mrs. Frechette in Harper as a model housekeeper. The daughter of the Queen does not think it beneath her dignity to go into the laundry and instruct the maids concerning their duties, or to give an occasional eye to the marketing when it is brought in. A friend of Mrs. Frechette was lately dining at Rideau Hall, and during the dinner she remarked upon the excellence of the oyster pates to one of the ladies in waiting to the Princess. "Yes,"

A store-keeper having paid some fruitless visits to one of his customers, called a few days ago for an installment of his debt. But the customer, expecting him, told her son, a lad of five years, to say she was "in the toon." Accordingly, when the man called, and asked, "Where is your mother to-day?" the boy promptly replied, "In the toon." "What toon?" asked the merchant. The boy having no futher iustructions from his mother, went to the next room, and shouted, "Mither, what toon are ye at?

scene on an American ferry crossing a rough river. "Oh, Henry this is terrible." "Yes it is," he responded, "but lean on me, and I will protect " . Do you think it will be as rough as Laborers for Plantations, Railroads, this all the way across?" "I do," responded Henry. "Then I fancy I shall indeed have to lean on you," returned the lady. " For life." whispered Henry turning pale at the thought of a refusal. " I-I-don't know. The water is aw-ful-rough. I-fancy-yes-you'd better themselves into organizations for offense and The London and China Express in its comsations, it is a subject on which different opinions are entertained. That they are more dangerous than the Hoeys is a firm belief of the Singapore officials, whose experiences of Hoikien and Tie Chew rows are greater than in Secret Society riots. On the other hand, Penang officials would in all probability express an opposite belief, for their experiences are the reverse. The shame which prevents respectable Chinese from mixing in Secret Society quarrels does not exist with reference to the clans. Were the clan organisations universal amongst the Chinese in the Straits Settlements there would be found respectable and influential Chinese willing to accept offices under the Government, and who could be made responsible for the peace of their district. These Captain Chinamen, or whatever name was given them, would find it to their interest to preserve order, and in the event of a quarrel between the members of opposite clans, a meeting of the headsmen would, with the assistance of Mr. Pickering, the Chinese Protector, and his staff, soon settle the dispute. The difficulty in dealing with the Hoeys is due to the very fact that men of no influence or reputation occupy the position of headmen of the Secret Societies, and this is incontestably proved in the case of Choah Moh Chun, who is acknowleged, even by Mr. Pickering, to have been of great use in keeping peace, not only amongst the members of his own Hoey, but also between the other societies and the clans.
